Notable features:

The eastern half of this Hollins Street block developed first; in 1851 there was but one house west of Carlton Street. Much of this early building has been replaced, but the set-back house with a shed roof at 1105 is certainly either original (i.e., before 1851), or in the same site as an earlier house.

After 1851, it grew rapidly as activity at the Market increased. Rebuilding has occurred -- the bath house is an example. The entire street should be rehabilitated. Numbers 1101 and 1115-1117 are original shop fronts.

Environmental context:

Numbers 1107, 1115 are vacant. Others are used for storage, warehousing, etc., which immediately uglifies buildings with the blocked-up or blanked-out windows and doors. A redesign of this block in keeping with the commercial character of the Market is in order. A mix of residential and first-floor commercial would be ideal. The difficulty of getting parking elsewhere probably means the unsightly continuous row of cars have to remain at curbside.
